Dear Collectors

Welcome to the first edition of Stamp Bulletin Australia for 2013. We include a special introduction to Australia 2013 World Stamp Show, which is fast approaching. I urge collectors planning to attend Melbourne in May to keep up with the event highlights and the special souvenir range available by regularly visiting the Australia 2013 website. You will also find useful links to other Victorian and Melbourne attractions, events and resources, including accommodation and public transport options.

We start off the year celebrating the Lunar New Year (LNY) Year of the Snake. The LNY issue includes a special sheetlet and PNC. The stamp pack, when used together with one of the prepaid envelopes from the issue, is a perfect LNY greeting card.

The Australian Legends Award program continues, with an issue that will delight most Australians. Make sure you visit your local Australia Post retail outlet or the Australia Post website after the announcement to see who the Legends for 2013 are. The stamp issue will be released 18 January 2013.

In February we celebrate history and surf culture in Australia and the 50th anniversary of the sports peak body, Surfing Australia. Many Australians, having grown up within easy access to a beach, will have identified with the surf scene at one point or another in their lives. The four stamp designs and the associated products capture moments in surfing's past and present.

We also bring you a new issue of stamps ideally suited for those special occasions, where a more specific stamp design is called for. The Greetings stamp issue will also be available for use with the Personalised Stamps™ service. The introduction of these new designs is part of an ongoing commitment by Australia Post to meet the needs of our general, social, and business mail customers.

Top Dogs, a se-tenant issue of stamps, features five four-legged friends, set for a lifetime of loyalty or of mischievous play. These delightful little canines appear to be right at home on this special issue.

This edition also brings further news and results of the stamp poll 2012.

Happy collecting

Michael Zsolt
Manager, Philatelic

Snake Characters

1759126 Stamp pack

The Chinese zodiac is made up of a 12-year cycle, with Chinese animal signs used for dating the years. For festive seasons, such as the New Year, the Chinese lunar calendar is the determining factor and the recurring animal year cycle is Rat, Ox, Tiger, Rabbit, Dragon, Snake, Horse, Goat (or Sheep), Monkey, Rooster, Dog and Pig.

The Snake is the sixth sign in the Chinese zodiac and it symbolises wisdom, caution and romance. The stamps feature the calligraphic symbol for the Snake and its pictorial derivation.

The stamps show the development of the Chinese character for the Snake, shown fully in the $1.80c stamp, and the way it is derived from its pictorial representation, shown in the 60c stamp. Paper-cut motifs are used to pictorially represent the Snake in the 60c stamp.

Issue highlights

Foiling will be used in the gutter of the 60c stamp sheet as well as in the design of the zodiac sheet. There is also a $1 circular stamp included in the Lotus sheetlet.

The zodiac sheetlet is a continuing feature of Lunar New Year issues (first introduced in 2002) and features paper cuts of each of the animals of the zodiac with the highlighted year in purple foil. The stamps, minisheet and zodiac sheetlet stamps were designed by Dani Poon, Tak Nai of Melbourne. This is the sixth stamp issue in the Lunar New Year cycle by the talented designer.

Issue highlights

A limited edition postal and numismatic cover accompanies this issue.

Surfing is such a cornerstone of Australian leisure that it is difficult to imagine a time at which it did not exist. At the dawn of the 20th century, surf bathing was prohibited during daylight hours, surfboards were unknown and the unpatrolled ocean was feared by most. A little over a century later, surfing is one of our most popular leisure pursuits, our champions are among the best in the world, and the fashion and culture of the sport are dominant not just along the coastline but also across the country.

For many, surfing has become shorthand for what it means to be Australian. It accommodates both our irreverent, laidback sensibility and our dynamic sporting prowess. In 2013, Surfing Australia, the governing body of the sport, celebrates 50 years of promoting surfing as quintessentially Australian and steering its professional recognition. Marking the anniversary of Surfing Australia, this stamp issue embraces surfing culture and history since its popularity surged in the 1950s.

The stamps have been designed to reflect the ephemera produced through the years, which has supported and given shape to surf culture. Typography has been a large part of ephemera design, which is reflected in the stamp designs. Through their imagery, typography and “look”, the stamps express an historical arc from the 1950s to the current day.

Issue highlights

Self-adhesive booklets of 10 are available for each of the featured breeds and also as a collection.

Did you know that around 12 million Australians, comprising 63 per cent of households own a pet and 38 per cent of these households have at least one dog? We are a nation of dog lovers and this issue will appeal to the owners of popular small dog breeds.

The Miniature Schnauzer originated as a farm dog in Germany in the 19th century. A cross between a standard Schnauzer and smaller breeds such as the Poodle and Affenpinscher, the breed comes in four colours: black, salt-and-pepper, black-and-silver, and white. Playful and spirited, yet friendly and intelligent, Miniature Schnauzers make excellent watchdogs.

The Miniature Dachshund is a hound dog, probably bred in Germany in the 18th century to hunt burrow-dwelling animals. Long-bodied, with big front paws designed for efficient digging, dachshunds can be long, smooth or wire-haired and come in a range of colours. They are loyal and obstinate and sometimes stand-offish with strangers.

The Pug originated as a lap dog in the royal courts of ancient China. The breed was imported to Europe in the 16th century, where it became a favourite with the House of Orange, and soon became popular throughout Europe. Queen Victoria owned many Pugs. These dogs tend to be quiet and docile and are good family pets.

Descended from British rough coast-type terriers brought to Australia in the 19th century, the Australian Terrier was first recognised as a distinct breed in 1850. Coat colours are shades of blue or red. The breed standard describes the Australian Terrier as spirited and alert, "with the natural aggressiveness of a ratter and hedge hunter".

Bred as a toy dog, the Cavalier King Charles Spaniel was popular among the nobility in 16th century England, where it was used as a "lap warmer" for ladies. It was said of King Charles II that "his Majesty was seldom seen without his little dogs" and the breed has since been identified with this monarch. Cavalier King Charles Spaniels are affectionate, playful and socialise well with children and other dogs.
