Hello Collectors

Welcome to the new edition of the Stamp Bulletin, presenting new stamp issues for Australia and the Australian territories. Included is an issue featuring rock art from the north Kimberley language and cultural groups of the Wanjinia Wunggurr community.

Two upcoming stamp issues showcase Australia's stunning natural beauty. Aerial Views highlights Australia's varied landscape from a bird's eye view, while Australian Rivers brings us back to ground level, presenting a selection of rivers from across Australia, including those that support important ecosystems.

Beautiful Australian cultivars are on display in September, when we feature four Australian-bred roses. This issue, which includes a special rose-scented stamp pack, will be released in the lead-up to the World Rose Convention 2022, being held in Adelaide.

In October, we mark the 50th anniversary of Peter Brock's inaugural Bathurst triumph and celebrate his incredible success on the Mount Panorama track.

We also mark the 150th anniversary of the establishment of free, secular and mandatory education for children in Australia, which began with legislation passed by the colony of Victoria, one of the first regions in the world to do so.

In September, we feature Norfolk Island maps drawn by seaman and artist George Raper while stranded between 1790 and 1791, following the wrecking of the Sirius. In October, we showcase the Cocos (Keeling) Islands Pandanus or Screw Pine.

September is Australia Post Collecting Month, which celebrates the popular pastimes of stamp and coin collecting, particularly with children in mind. This year, we invite you to explore dinosaurs and a pterosaur from the Cretaceous Period, including those at the centre of recent Australian fossil discoveries. You can even join the Dino Hunt and look for the four dinosaur coins in your change at participating Australia Post retail stores!

Australia is a land of great contrasts, from the tropical north to the arid centre to the temperate south. This stamp issue shows some of the diversity that defines our unique natural heritage.

The distinctive Cradle Mountain presides over the nearby Crater Lake in the stamp design. Its craggy form rises 1,545 metres above sea level. In the Top End, Kakadu is one of Australia's largest national parks. It is on the lands of the Bininj/Mungguy people and incorporates many diverse environments, including the rugged gorge shown in the stamp. The east Kimberley's Purnululu National Park is on the traditional lands of the Kija/Gija people. Its extraordinary Bungle Bungle Range is a maze of ancient sculpted towers. The Great Barrier Reef runs from near the tip of Queensland's east coast to just north of Bundaberg. It is the world's largest coral reef system and supports abundant corals and marine life.

For this year's Collecting Month we return to the age of the dinosaurs, in particular the Cretaceous Period (145–66 million years ago), with four dinosaurs and one pterosaur (winged lizard).

At this time, present-day Australia was joined to Antarctica, New Zealand and South America, forming the supercontinent Gondwana. The Australian part of Gondwana was located close to the South Pole, and had a cool, wet climate. A shallow inland sea, the Eromanga Sea, covered nearly a third of what is now central Australia, providing an ideal habitat for dinosaurs and pterosaurs.

The titanosaurian sauropod (meaning “lizard-footed”) Diamantinasaurus matildae lived around 100–95 million years ago, in what is now southern central Queensland. This four-legged plant-eating dinosaur is estimated to have measured 16 to 20 metres in length and about 3 metres tall at the hip. The known skeleton is nicknamed “Matilda”.

The theropod (meaning “three-toed”) dinosaur Australovenator wintonensis was discovered near Winton, Queensland. Nicknamed “Banjo”, like all carnivorous dinosaurs Australovenator was two-legged, with smaller forelimbs. About half a metre high at the hip, and a swift predator, it was equipped with three scimitar-shaped claws and sharp teeth.

Ferrodraco lentoni was a flying reptile, or pterosaur, fossils of which were found in the Winton region of central western Queensland. Ferrodraco had a wingspan of about four metres and lived around 96 million years ago, in the Late Cretaceous Period. It is likely that it ate mainly fish and lived around lake and river systems.

The near-complete, fossilised skeleton of the dinosaur Kunbarrasaurus ieverisi was discovered in 1989 near Richmond in Queensland. This small armoured ankylosaur (meaning “fused lizard”) is the most complete ankylosaurian skeleton from the entirety of the Gondwanan continents. It is thought to have lived around the Eromanga Sea between 103–101 million years ago.

The recently discovered elaphrosaurine theropod dinosaur species is related to Elaphrosaurus (meaning “light-footed lizard”). It is not yet assigned to any genus because of its incompleteness, with a single neck vertebra bone discovered near Cape Otway, Victoria in 2015. The sediments at the site date from the Early Cretaceous, around 110–107 million years ago.

Along with the range of stamp products for collectors, there is also a wonderful 1,000 piece jigsaw puzzle featuring the artwork of Peter Trusler. The final image reflects the artwork for the minisheet and would make a wonderful gift for puzzle enthusiasts!

There are in excess of 120 wild roses in the world, all native to the Northern Hemisphere. New roses that have been hybridised or bred from these species are referred to as “cultivars” or “new varieties”. They can be classed as either “old garden roses” (including damasks, teas and hybrid perpetuals) or “modern garden roses” (including hybrid teas and floribundas).

Australian-bred roses are cultivars that have been bred in Australia to suit local growing conditions, and Australia has produced some very reputable, mainly amateur rose breeders. Best known and most influential is Alister Clark (1864–1949), who released more than 120 roses during his lifetime. His 1924 rose ‘Lorraine Lee’ is an iconic and much-loved tea rose, which was recently inducted into the Australian Bred Rose Hall of Fame.

‘Dusky Moon’ is a hardy and vigorous shrub rose, bred in New South Wales by Richard and Ruth Walsh. It took out “best Australian-bred rose” and a silver medal at the 2020 National Rose Trial Awards, as well as the Ausrose Australian Bred Rose of the Year.

'Lady of Australia' is a floribunda rose, bred in Victoria by Bruce Brundrett. This very free-flowering rose won the top gold medal and "best floribunda rose" at the National Rose Trial Awards in 2018 and was also named the most pest- and disease-tolerant rose. This is the first time in the Trial Garden's 26-year history that an Australian rose has been awarded the best overall rose.

'Lady of Australia' honours the wives of governor-generals of Australia and is a charity rose for Australian War Widows.

'Governor Marie Bashir' is a floribunda rose, bred in Queensland by Paul Hains. This strong-performing, delicately fragranced rose is named in honour of Professor The Hon. Dame Marie Bashir AD CVO, former governor of NSW (and first female governor of that state) and a former patron of the Rose Society of NSW.

This issue features a map and artwork by George Raper (1769–96), a Royal Navy officer and artist who accompanied the First Fleet to Australia. On 6 March 1790, HMS Sirius, with Raper on board, left Port Jackson (now Sydney Harbour) for Norfolk Island but was wrecked while landing with supplies leaving the crew stranded for 11 months. Raper and the rest of the ship's company returned to Sydney with HMS Supply, arriving 27 February 1791.

Raper made several watercolour sketches of natural history and topographical features while he was on Norfolk Island. The map has two views of the island on the one sheet, the left-hand side ($1.10 stamp) showing the route of the Sirius from Sydney Cove to Norfolk Island. The original watercolour drawing of the fish, titled "Snapper of Norfolk Island", is held in the collection of the Natural History Museum, London.

The vast Kimberley region of north-eastern Western Australia is a dynamic cultural landscape situated within dramatic steep-sided mountain ranges, sandstone and limestone gorges, waterfalls, pristine rivers, tidal creeks and a rugged coastline that gives way to numerous islands and coral reefs. It is also one of the oldest and largest wilderness landscapes in the world.

The Kimberley is a renowned region for its rich rock art galleries. It is also home to Australia's oldest-known rock painting, with researchers, archaeologists and traditional owners working side by side to establish the age of the many examples of rock art found throughout this vast area. Methods used to establish age are quite complex, and their outcomes important in answering the question of just how old the rock artwork is. This stamp issue features art from the north Kimberley language and cultural groups that comprise the Wanjina Wunggurr community.

Peter Geoffrey Brock (1945–2006) is a legend of Australian motorsport. His name is synonymous with success at Bathurst racing events held at Mount Panorama. In 2022 we commemorate the 50th anniversary of Brock's inaugural Bathurst triumph and his illustrious career. The Bathurst 1000 trophy now carries his name.

Born in Melbourne, Brock purchased his first car, an Austin 7, in his late adolescence. In 1965, he was drafted into the Australian Army and stationed at the Blamey Barracks near Wagga Wagga,

New South Wales. During his time there, Brock visited the 1966 Gallaher 500 at the famous Mount Panorama circuit in Bathurst. Enthralled by the sport, Brock discovered his passion and desire to drive at the elite level and began his racing career soon after his army duty concluded.

Brock's Bathurst debut was the 1969 Hardie-Ferodo 500. Driving alongside Des West in a Holden Monaro GTS 350, Brock immediately made a name for himself, finishing in third place. In the years that followed, and after a string of promising performances, Brock entered the newly formed Holden Dealer Team (HDT). In 1972 he drove the iconic Holden Torana LJ GTR XU-1 defeating Alan Moffat's Ford GT-H0 and was instantly hailed as an emerging talent in the world of Australian motorsport. Controversy led to Brock departing the HDT team in 1973 and he spent the next few years successfully competing in Rallycross events in Victoria and New South Wales before returning to the HDT in 1978 and once again asserting his dominance.

"The Great Race" of 1979 is often regarded as the most dominant Bathurst display of all time. Brock and co-driver Jim Richards overpowered the field to claim a six-lap victory over second placed Janson and Perkins. The extent of their victory was impressive. They had led the race from start to finish after qualifying in pole position.

Brock conquered the Bathurst event a record nine times, racing in some of Holden's most famous models.

The Cocos (Keeling) Islands evolved in isolation from a large land mass, and human populations only arrived a few hundred years ago. This, along with the sandy soil, helps to explain why there are only around 60 plant species recorded there. The only plant believed to be endemic to Cocos is Pandanus tectorius var. cocosensis, commonly known as Pandanus or Screw Pine. There is, however, evidence to suggest that it may not be a distinct variety but part of the natural variation of Pandanus tectorius, a species native to eastern Australia, Indonesia and the Pacific Islands. This small, dioecious tree typically grows in coastal lowlands, near the edge of the ocean, supported by prop roots that anchor it to the ground. Male plants produce showy white bracteate flowers, while female plants have flowers that produce large orange fruits.

The Education Act was passed in Victoria on 17 December 1872. This legislation made the colony one of the first jurisdictions in the world to offer free, compulsory and secular education to its children. Public education was now administered by the centralised Victorian Department of Education. Subsequent to the Act, education was free, children were obliged to attend school from the age of 6 to 15, and secular instruction promoted fairness and harmony in a society then riven by sectarianism. Before 1872 most schools were controlled by churches or were privately operated, and many children were not receiving an education at all. By 1908, all six states of the Commonwealth of Australia had centralised government departments administering free, compulsory and secular education. Today, Australia has a robust public education system, with the majority of children attending public government schools.

Of Australia's 439 rivers many are smaller tributaries that flow into larger rivers. Our inland water systems can be diverse and range from meandering rivers swollen with seasonal flows, to those progressively reducing in size on the flat, wide floodplains as large wetlands.

There are seven main rivers in Australia, six of which belong to the Murray-Darling Basin river system. This system covers around one-seventh of the country and includes the Darling River, River Murray (as it is referred to in South Australia), and the Murrumbidgee River supplying fresh drinking water, and supporting some $22 billion in primary production each year.

The vast Lake Eyre Basin, the largest endorheic basin in Australia, covers around one-sixth of the country. When country in the north floods, water drains into the basin via the intermittent Diamantina River, Georgina River and Cooper Creek.

Tasmania has a network of river and lake systems and maintains a high proportion of wild or undisturbed waterways compared to the rest of the country.

Important notice

On occasion currency has been sent to the Australian Philatelic Bureau in the mail to cover the cost of an order. Whilst this practice is rare, we would like to remind all our customers that this method of payment cannot be accepted.

Australia Post also wishes to advise that, in keeping with guidelines for mail processing as set by the Australian Postal Corporation Act 1989, we are unable to return any currency by mail.

Planned withdrawal dates may be changed without notice to meet emergent postal requirements. Advice of such changes will be published retrospectively in the first available Stamp Bulletin Australia. Contact the Australian Philatelic Bureau (FREECALL 1800 331 794 within Australia, +61 3 9887 0033 overseas) or visit auspost.com.au/stamps for the current price at the time you place your order. Hours of operation are 8:30am to 5pm AEDT. The price of stamps and related products, souvenir items and numismatics are correct at the time of printing but are subject to change. The price of numismatic products is subject to valuation changes. Contact the Australian Philatelic Bureau, or your participating Post Offices to check the current price at the time of placing your order.

Updating your Credit Card details

Over the phone, free call 1800 331 794
or +613 9887 0033 from overseas

Payments:

- Do not send cash in the mail
this is not secure and there is no guarantee your payments will reach us
- All payments must be in Australian Dollars — the conversion of foreign currency will reduce the balance available in your account due to processing fees
