Endangered Freshwater Fishes

A spotlight on the species at risk of extinction.

Australia has more than 300 species of native freshwater fish, of which between 60 and 90 species are in danger of extinction. This collection has been designed to raise awareness of this dire situation. One of the species pictured is the Redfin Blue Eye, which is found on only one property, owned by Bush Heritage Australia. This location determined the postmark for the issue – Aramac, Qld 4726, the nearest post office to the property. A program is underway to try to save the species (see bushheritage.org.au/species/red-finned-blue-eye).

Corals of Cocos (Keeling) Islands

Under the sea in the Australian external territory.

Located in the Indian Ocean around 2770km northwest of Perth, the Cocos (Keeling) Islands is a group of 27 islands, only two of which are inhabited. The surrounding coral reefs host a huge variety of marine life, including around 99 species of beautiful corals. This issue highlights the intricate details of these fragile corals, all of which are significantly under threat by global warming and rising sea levels.

Norfolk Island Nature

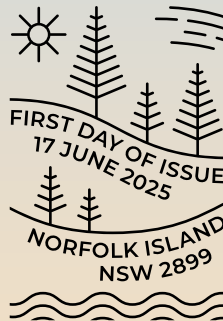

Norfolk Island's lush, green fauna adds to the appeal of the secluded paradise.

Norfolk Island was formed by volcanic activity between two and three million years ago. Millions of years of weathering of the basaltic rock has created a variety of soil types that today support many native and introduced plants and animals. Until European settlement began in 1788, most of the main island was covered by subtropical rainforest. Thanks to its remote location, Norfolk Island nurtured many unique plant and animal species. Following settlement, much of the island was gradually cleared for agriculture and other purposes, and many areas are now preserved as national parks. The stamps in this series feature two iconic Norfolk Island plants, one introduced and one indigenous. The minisheet offers a picturesque view of the historical Kingston Common Reserve, with distinctive Norfolk Island pine trees surrounding a pastoral landscape of gently rolling green hills.

Important notice

On occasion, currency has been sent to the Australian Philatelic Bureau in the mail to cover the cost of an order. While this practice is rare, we would like to remind all our customers that this method of payment cannot be accepted.

Australia Post advises that this is in keeping with guidelines for mail processing as set by the Australian Postal Corporation Act 1989.

Planned withdrawal dates may be changed without notice to meet emergent postal requirements. Advice of such changes will be published retrospectively in the first available Stamp Bulletin Australia. Contact the Australian Philatelic Bureau (FREECALL 1800 331 794 within Australia, +61 3 8340 7240 overseas) or visit auspost.com.au/stamps for the current price at the time you place your order. Hours of operation are 8.30am to 5pm AEST. The price of stamps and related products, souvenir items and numismatics are correct at the time of printing but are subject to change. The price of numismatic products is subject to valuation changes. Contact the Australian Philatelic Bureau or your participating Post Office to check the current price at the time of placing your order.

Postal numismatic covers, medallion covers and stamp covers price update – effective January 2025

Due to an increase in cost to produce postal numismatic covers (PNCs), medallion covers and other stamp covers, an increase in RRP has been effective from 2025. Pricing varies across the range of PNCs, medallion covers and other stamp covers released from January 2025 onwards.
